Wylie Inn and Conference Center unveils upgrades

Wylie Inn and Conference Center at Endicott College, which sits along a stretch of Boston's North Shore oceanfront, has unveiled multi-million dollar upgrades to their conference center and 91 spacious guestrooms.

The rooms were refreshed with new hard goods and a design that frames views of the 10-acre estate. The waterside conference center, certified by the International Association of Conference Centers, underwent a head-to-toe renovation that installed the latest meetings technology, improved presentation capabilities and revamped the interior design.

"The renovations look great and we're pleased the improvements provide us the capabilities to better service meetings planners, Endicott College and the surrounding community," said Pyramid Hotel Group executive vice president, operations Jim Merrill.
